HELLO!

I've spent over a decade behind the lens, specializing in VR filming and exploring photography, immersive art, and NFTs. What began as chance became passion, shaped by Cape Town's landscapes. Inspired by Dali, the Greeks, and French Fine Art, I created Lentille NU - "Naked Lens." My work aims to reveal the body's quiet elegance, offering subtle, thoughtful images in contrast to today's over-sexualized world.

ABOUT

When the world slowed down during the pandemic, so did my VR work. What could have felt like a pause became a turning point. I turned inward, searching for something more personal, more raw, more human. That search led me here.

It began with a conversation with a lifelong friend who offered to be my first “model.” I say “model” lightly – because the people I work with are rarely professionals. They’re everyday humans, carrying their own stories, bodies, and truths. That’s what fascinates me.

Photography, for me, is not about perfection. It’s about stillness, raw reality, and the moments in between. I’m drawn to the body not as a subject to be posed, but as a landscape of sheen, freckle and furrows of the body

This work isn’t about provocation or spectacle. It’s about intimacy without intrusion, about finding elegance in what’s natural, and about honoring the human form as it is.

I'm captivated by chiaroscuro – the way light and shadow trace the body, turning it into something both abstract and deeply alive. Working close to my subjects, I can explore the smallest details: the texture of skin, the subtle shifts in tone, the quiet rhythm of their form. Every curve and plane becomes a pattern, a fleeting geometry I try to capture before it passes.
